Principal Crandall at Hartford Meet

speakers at the afternoon session.
E. W. Allen, who is at the head of a $2,000,000 agency in New York, ada $2,000,000 agency in New York, addressed the agents upon the Best Way of Approaching and Obtaining Prospects, and Mr. Crandall's subject was Honesty as the Foundation Rock of Business Success. After hearing the address Mr. Allen invited Mr. Crandall to be a speaker before his agency in June. In his address Mr. Crandall told his earers that truthful statements and acts concerning your proposition will win the confidence of your prospect and confidence is really the two sides of the ladder which lead to success. In placing the sides of the ladder of success in position I would advise that a cleat be placed across the foot of the ladder to keep it from slipping. This cleat might be called prepara-tion. In selling goods the necessary steps in the sale are always the same whether one is selling an automobile, a railroad or a suit of clothes. The first step or round in the lad-ler is to get an introduction to the rospect either through advertising or olicitation. The next step is to ge is attention and this attention mus favorable. From this step in the ider we go to the next, which is erest. The good salesman will arouse an intense interest in his pros-pect's mind for the goods which he is selling, then he will place the next round in the ladder and try to step upon that, it is called desire. The good salesman must arouse an intense desire after he has created an interest Then he takes one more step up the adder and gets a decision and the action from the customer to buy. The Protect your horse from torment in y time.

Proper shoeing protects the feet satisfied with his purchase for upon satisfie his satisfaction rests the future of his ealings with the firm. From th picture you will see that untruthful announcements or dishonesty in any respect will destroy confidence and if respect will destroy confidence and if confidence, the sides of the ladder, is destroyed the salesman has nothing upon which to climb to successful selling for truthfulness and honesty is the real foundation and inspiration of those who win success in selling. If you as a representative of your company realize fully that you are working with the executives and not for ing with the executives and not fo them you will welcome the friendly, constructives criticisms which are given for your benefit, to help you grow, to help you render the greatest service to your clients and your com-You are here gathered for inspira-ion and after listening to the previous speakers, I am sure you have been in-spired to do greater things. If you stop and think it over carefully I am sure that you will realize that it is not only inspiration that counts. Perspiration has a good deal to do with winning success in business.

If you want more sales remember the old time saying: "Where there's a will there's a way," and the old saying, "Honesty is the best policy," has been improved to "Honesty is the only policy," for the advertiser or for the policy," for the advertiser or for the salesman who wishes to win permanent success in any line of business. Be honest, truthful, active, read, think, observe, listen and discuss and you are sure of winning success.

ARTILLERYMEN AWAITING ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT

Colonel Dorsey Plans for Plenty of Practical Work at Fort Wright.

The Norwich Coast Artillery com panies, the Third and the Fifth, are panies, the Third and the Fifth, are anticipating with much interest now the departure for the annual encampment at Fort Wright, Fisher's Island, June 10-19. The companies from all parts of the state, 13 in all, will arrive in New London on the morning of the 10th and will embark on government steamers for Fort Wright steamers for Fort Wright.

The indications are that Connecticut, in proportion to the size of its corps, will send as many men to summer camp as any state in the union.
The importance of the citizen soldiery is now being urged by President Wilson, Secretary Garrison and others, and it has resulted in a stimulus in the national guard. It is expected that there will be about 800 men and 50 officers in the Connecticut Coast Artil lery encampment.

Colonel Dorsey plans to give the companies plenty of practical work in this encampment. Each succeeding encampment sees more and more of this tendency toward making it a thoroughly practical affair. The day of the summer outing camps has passed and it is business every minute now. The New York Coast Artillery com-panies come to Fort Wright after the Connecticut encampment. There are two New York regiments of Coast ar-tillery. They will have separate encampments, one coming the day after campments, one coming the day after the other leaves.

It is expected that the West Point cadets will be at Wright this summer. They have been there the past few years for a two weeks' camp, being instructed in the handling of the big guns. Patience is the long road that leads
